2011 TENNESSEE VOLLEYBALL CAMP

Aspiring female volleyball players will have an opportunity to learn the sport from some of the best at the Tennessee Volleyball Camp. Two-time National Coach of the Year Rob Patrick and his staff will conduct summer camps in July, where students of the game will have an opportunity to learn a variety of skills from Lady Vol staff and players as well as other national and local volleyball coaches. All volleyball skills and techniques, along with footwork, movement skills, speed development, agility and specialized setter and hitter training will be emphasized during the sessions.

A former collegiate player himself, Patrick's success as a coach at one of the nation's top programs, as well as 1994 and 1996 NCAA National Champion Stanford, has led him to develop some of the nation's top players, including members of the U.S. National Team.

The 2011 camp will be held on the campus of the University of Tennessee and is open to girls in grades five through 12. Campers of all experience levels are welcome to attend.

2010 LADY VOL VOLLEYBALL

2010 Season Preview

One team. One goal.

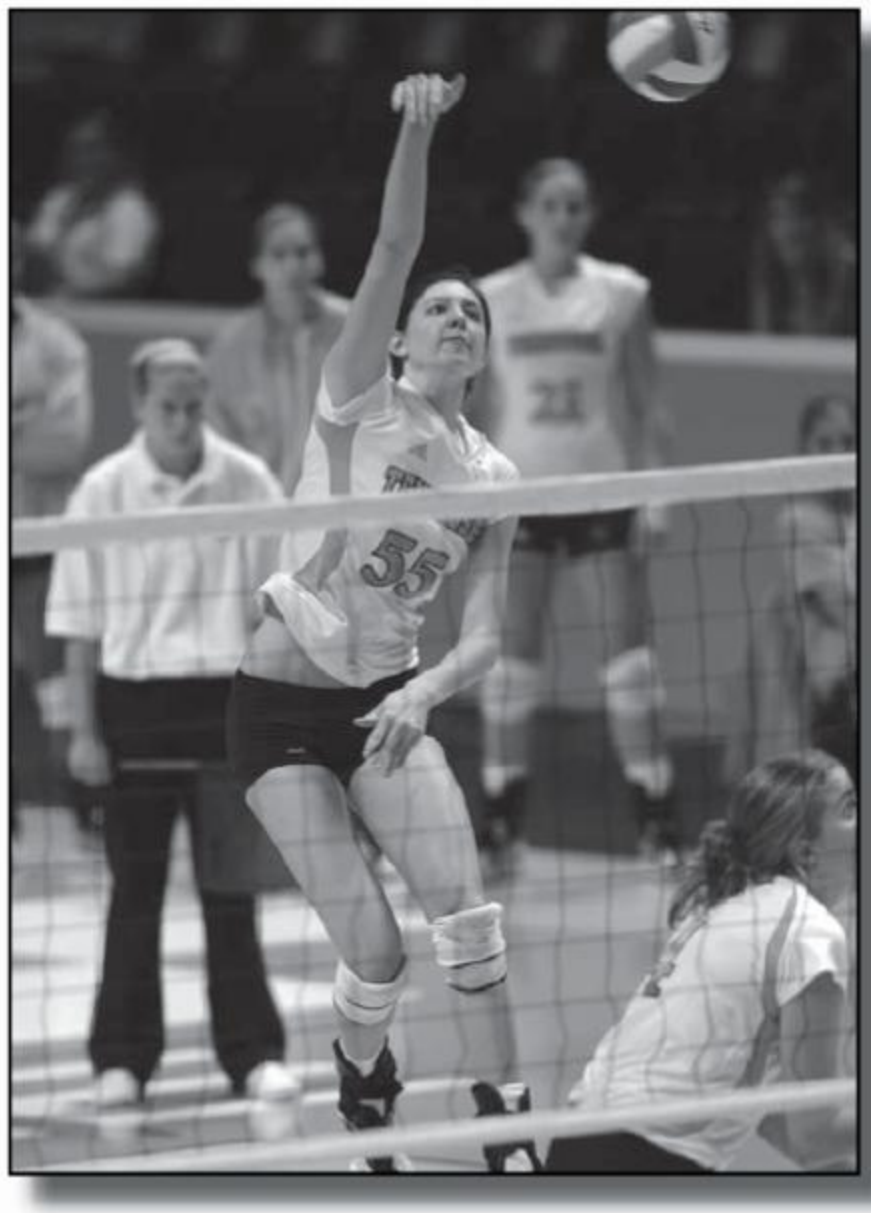
To a person, each member of the University of Tennessee volleyball team and coaching staff lists a Southeastern Conference championship as their primary objective for the 2010 campaign. After back-to-back NCAA Tournament appearances and 20-win seasons, the Lady Volunteers are focused on the one goal that has eluded them in each of the past two years.

With 10 returning letterwinners and the nation's fourth-ranked recruiting class ready to hit the court, the Big Orange feels it has all the pieces in place to make a run at the league title. Of those 10 returning players, five started over 20 matches for a team that reached the second round of the NCAA Tournament, fashioned an overall record of 24-8, including the most SEC wins (16) in school history, and finished with a No. 24 national ranking in 2009.

The rest of the conference agrees with the Lady Vols' assessment of themselves, as the other 10 coaches voted Tennessee as the preseason favorite to win the league title just a day after it was tabbed the 19th-best team in the nation by the rest of the country in the American Volleyball Coaches Association (AVCA) preseason poll. UT Head Coach Rob Patrick is not shying away from the challenge either.

"We have a very motivated group that put in a tremendous amount of work in the off-season," Patrick said. "As it is every year, our goal is to win the SEC championship, and I feel that we can really make a run at it. One of our biggest strengths is that we should be one of the most physical teams in the conference, and we are a little bit older than we have been at key positions. We hope that experience will help carry us to some more success this season.

"In reality, there are three or four teams that can challenge for the SEC championship, but everyone has put the pressure on us. We are going to see how we respond to that. We have high expectations for our program, and if we can't talk about winning an SEC championship, then we aren't going to have a chance. Our players have worked extremely hard and have put themselves in a position to make a strong push to reach that goal."



Two-time AVCA Honorable Mention All-American Nikki Fowler will be looking to finish her career in style, as the Lady Vols set their sites at an SEC championship.

One of the main reasons for the Lady Vols' confidence this season is the vast collection of talent that they have amassed at the outside and right side hitting positions. Of the five candidates looking to carry the squad's offensive load, four are potential six-rotation players that will play a large role in the passing game and defensively.

Leading the way in 2010 will be senior Nikki Fowler, a two-time AVCA Honorable Mention All-American and First Team All-SEC member and three-time preseason All-SEC Team selection. The Dallas, Texas, native spent her summer with the U.S. Women's National A2 Blue Team with whom she won a gold medal at the USA Volleyball Open National Championships in Phoenix, Ariz. Easily one of the best all-around players in school history, Fowler begins this season ranked 12th on Tennessee's career kills chart with 1,256 and needs 526 to break the school record.

"Nikki is really an incredible player," Patrick said. "She does everything for us, passing, attacking and defending, and has for her entire career here. She has had a huge impact on our program since stepping on campus three years ago and is a difference-maker on the court in every match we play. Her experience with the U.S. Women's National A2 Team this summer has only increased her confidence and abilities. We really expect even greater things out of her this season."

Another offensive standout returning for UT is junior Kayla Jeter. An All-SEC Second Team selection in 2009 and a preseason All-SEC Team member alongside Fowler this year, she made a name for herself last season, finishing behind only Fowler in the kills department with 353 putaways, good for an average of 2.92 per set. The Solon, Ohio, product produced 70 blocks, 97 digs and 10 service aces as well.

"Kayla is just an extremely physical player," Patrick said. "Most people don't realize that she played in the middle for most of her high school and club career, so this is only going to be her third year as an outside hitter. Her improvement at that position has been tremendous. I am very excited to see what she has in store for this season now that she has become more comfortable and has had some success within our offense. In addition to being a huge force at the net and just more flexible in terms of her attacking, I think another area where she is really going to stand out is in her back-row play."

A middle blocker in high school, sophomore Leslie Cikra will vie for increased playing time on the outside after starting 24 matches during her rookie campaign. The tallest of the five outside hitting candidates at 6-3, she brings an added dimension of physicality at the net, both attacking and blocking.

"Leslie was learning a brand new position on the fly last season, but she has really taken the training seriously and has elevated her hitting skill level to the point where she is much more consistent attacking the ball at the pins," Patrick said. "She is going to be difficult for other teams to match up with because of the height at which she contacts the ball, as well as the different tempos of sets that she can hit because she has played middle before. We are very excited to see her development on the court this year as she becomes more and more comfortable in our offense."

Rounding out the outside hitting roster is a pair of highly-touted freshmen in Kelsey Robinson and Carly Sahagian. Teammates for the past four years with the Sports Performance Volleyball Club and natives of Bartlett, Ill., they are both familiar with each other's playing styles and provide Patrick with numerous options in the back row and the libero position thanks to their advanced defensive skills.

Robinson arrives at Rocky Top with a list of accolades a mile long. In addition to being named the No. 19 recruit in the nation by PrepVolleyball.com, she also earned All-American status from the publication and second-team high school All-American honors from Volleyball Magazine. A three-year starter and two-year captain for perennial Illinois state power St. Francis High School, she helped the school achieve over 100 wins while playing for Hall of Fame coach Peg Kopac. With Sports Performance, Robinson was the co-captain of the 18-Elite Team in 2010, leading the squad to the 18-Open AAU national championship where she claimed tournament MVP honors.

"It's really neat to get someone like Kelsey into our program," Patrick said. "She has played at an elite level over the past few years in both high school and club and has been a little bit of a marked person in that other teams really geared up to stop her. She's going to be able to come in and compete at a high level immediately because she knows how to adapt on the court and is a player that is used to touching the ball a ton for her teams. She passed the ball, has a rocket jump serve, can play middle-back and is a great defender, was set more than anyone else and can block effectively. She's been a workhorse in the past, but the good thing is that we don't need her to play that role this year. She can come in and concentrate on her defense and passing and just take whatever comes to her offensively."

Well thought of in her own right, Sahagian came in as the 32nd-best player in the PrepVolleyball.com rankings. A three-time all-area selection and four-year starter for Bartlett H.S., she led the Fox Valley region in kills as a senior with 422 in 848 attempts, while hitting at a blistering .357 clip and topping her squad with 144 digs and 58 aces. In 2007, Sahagian was selected to train and compete with the USA Volleyball High Performance Select A1 program in Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

"Carly is one of those quiet assassins," Patrick said. "She plays very even keeled. It doesn't matter if she just got five kills in a row or was blocked five times in a row, she is going to come right back at you with the same intensity and the same quiet confidence. She is another six-rotation player that has touched the ball a lot for her high school and club teams. She controls the ball at a high level in terms of passing and digging and can be a force at the net, where I think she plays higher than most people realize. Once she gains a little bit of strength, I see her being a pretty big surprise to other teams around our league. She has the ability to play a big role for us immediately this year because she can help to solidify our defense and ball control."

Another position with plenty of depth and experience for the Lady Vols is setter, where they can turn to either a senior, a junior that has started each of the past two seasons, or one of the most talented freshmen in the country.

A 5-10 junior, Kelsey Mahoney enters the 2010 campaign with the most experience in the UT offense after starting as part of a 6-2 in her first two seasons in Knoxville. She also provides Patrick with the flexibility of going to a single-setter system as proven by her strong play at the end of last year when she was the team's only healthy option. With another summer of strength and skill training under her belt, the Fort Worth, Texas, native is poised for another terrific season.

"Kelsey has done a great job this off-season," Patrick said. "She's stronger, is more comfortable on the court and I think she really understands the whole gamut of what our team is about. That includes the tempo offense and how to run it, as well as what our hitters are good at and where their best attacks come from. She has really put herself in a position to 'quarterback' our offense and provide more of a leadership role on the court. To have a setter with as much experience as Kelsey has is really going to help us to be a better team in the long run."

A transfer from UT-Martin, senior Emily Steinbeck saw action in the team's first 21 matches last season before a broken hand kept her off the court until the second round of the NCAA Tournament. Prior to her injury, she proved to be very capable of running the offense and played a key role in the team's success.

"Emily came in as a newcomer last season and really helped solidify the setting position for us," Patrick said. "She had to make some quick adjustments in terms of learning our tempo offense and our hitters, but played quite a bit and helped us win a lot of matches. She is going to be more comfortable on the court this year, and I look for her to be a more consistent player all-around because of that, as well as the hard work she has put in this off-season."

Although she lacks the experience of Mahoney and Steinbeck, freshman Kylann Scheidt will bring some unique attributes to the setting position, mainly her physicality at the net and pure athleticism. One of the tallest setters in school history at 6-0, Scheidt is also the first Knoxville native to sign a scholarship to play for Patrick since he arrived at UT in 1997. After starting her prep career in Firth, Neb., Scheidt spent the next three years at Farragut High School. Ranked No. 21 on PrepVolleyball.com's Senior Aces chart, she graduated high school early and joined the Tennessee program in January.

"The first thing we are going to do is look in our backyard for talent and in the past we just haven't had that available so we are very excited that Kylann was here in Knoxville and decided to come to Tennessee," Patrick said. "She is going to be a little different than the setters we have had in the past in that she is going to be a force at the net. She is as athletic or more athletic than any setter we've ever had and is able to set at the net at a higher level, physically, than we've been able to do. Kylann is also a fearless setter. She will really force the ball to our middle hitters and believes she can set the ball to anybody at any time.

It was great that she was able to come in and learn our system during the spring because the one thing she needed to get better at was her consistency and she really worked hard with (assistant coach) Dani Busboom on that. Over the course of the last six months she really increased her skill level and took a lot of reps, so we are very excited about her development, as well as the physicality that she can bring to the court, especially defensively."

Another position that has the Lady Vols excited is middle blocker because of the experience of fifth-year senior Leah Hinkey, the return of sophomore Alyssa Hilby from a knee injury and the stunning athletic ability of sophomore DeeDee Harrison. This year will be the first that UT fans will be able to see Hinkey and Hilby play together as the latter missed the majority of the 2008 campaign with a knee injury of her own.

The longest-tenured Lady Vol, Hinkey enters her senior season ranked fourth on the Tennessee career blocks list with 452 putbacks. On the blocks per set chart, she sits in second at 1.27 behind only former teammate Sarah Blum who averaged 1.55 from 2003-06.

"Leah really did a fantastic job last year of rehabbing her knee in order to come back and start every match for us, but I thought she got a little tired at the end of the season just because she wasn't at 100 percent all year," Patrick said. "This may sound odd, but I look for her to have a breakout seasonin 2010. She is one of our very hardest workers and has put herself in a position to lead our team both on and off the court due to her experience as a fifth-year senior. I'm excited to see what she can do now that she is completely healthy again."

Looking to push Hinkey for the title of best blocker on the team will be Hilby. Prior to injuring her knee in summer workouts last year, the Lakewood, Wash., native sent back 117 attacks as a freshman in 2008, good for an average of 1.21 per set, which would have tied departed senior Farren Powe for the team lead last year.

"We are excited to have Alyssa back this year to help us shut down some of the great hitters in the SEC," Patrick said. "She was a terrific blocker her freshman year and will be able to bring a huge net presence defensively to our team. I also believe that watching from the sidelines for a year allowed her to catch on to the nuances of the position and better understand what we, as coaches, are trying to express from the bench."

Without a doubt, the player poised to make the biggest jump from last season is Harrison. With the ability to jump-touch 10-feet 11-inches, she is easily the highest-flying member of the Tennessee roster. The Nashville, Tenn., product, who saw action in nine matches last year, provided glimpses of her tremendous potential during her redshirt-freshman season, no more so than in her first start. In that contest at Georgia on Nov. 15, Harrison pounded out eight kills, including four in the opening frame, in addition to collecting seven blocks.

"DeeDee has been a steady work in progress, and she has put herself in a position to make a significant impact in matches this season," Patrick said. "We expect her to be learning on the fly a little bit, but, physically, she is somebody we feel we can match up with anybody in the country in the middle. She has worked extremely hard over the past few years to put herself in this position and she is going to have a great opportunity to play a lot for us. As she continues to become more consistent, she is probably going to have the largest offensive impact on our team, in terms of not only providing us with a middle presence, but opening up areas for our other hitters, because teams will have to concentrate on stopping her. We are very excited about her development and can't wait to see her take off."

With the departure of two of the best defensive players in school history in 2009 SEC Libero of the Year Chloe Goldman and Kylie Marshall, the biggest question mark entering the season will take over the tremendous defensive and passing responsibilities previously covered by those two.

While the Lady Vols don't expect any one player to fully shoulder the load, the frontrunner for the libero position heading into the season is junior Amanda Friday. With 40 matches of game experience on her résumé, the native of Springfield, Va., has far-and-away the most experience of any candidate vying to fill Goldman's old spot.

"Amanda is our most experienced defensive specialist going into the season," Patrick said. "She has a lot of matches under her belt and has played some very important points for our team, coming in to serve, pass and dig balls. We will be looking for her to bring that experience to bolster our back row as well as provide leadership to our young players in terms of how to practice and play the right way."

Another serious candidate is sophomore Jasmine Brown who is quickly catching up on the intricacies of a defensive specialist after setting and playing outside hitter at Girls Preparatory School in Chattanooga. Despite her lack of experience, her pure athletic ability allowed her to get on the court in 11 matches as a freshman last year, recording 11 digs during that time.

"Jasmine is our most athletic player in many ways," Patrick said. "She has put in a tremendous amount of hard work and has really caught up in both experience and with her skill level. She gained some valuable experience last season and did a great job defensively for us. She used this off-season to really hone her serve-receive skills, so you are going to see a much more refined player when she hits the court."

In addition to her first-year teammates Robinson and Sahagian, freshman Ellen Mullins will also be looked at as a possible contender for playing time in the back row and at libero. The Nashville native has been on UT's radar since running around at practices during her sister Ann's days at Rocky Top in 2003-04. Cut from the same cloth as Goldman in terms of her infectious energy and natural instincts, Mullins has the potential to earn playing time early and often.

"Ellen is going to bring a tremendous amount of energy to our program," Patrick said. "She is a very strong, skilled player who has set and hit in both club and high school. Although she will play more of a defensive specialist role here at Tennessee, her volleyball IQ is extremely high because she has played a number of positions. She is going to push for a lot of playing time early in her career and we will put her right in the mix for the libero position. Once she becomes comfortable with her defensive responsibilities, she will be a tremendous asset for us."

As it does every year, the University of Tennessee volleyball team has put together a challenging schedule for the upcoming fall season.

"We always want to put together a schedule that will challenge us early in the year in order to prepare our team for SEC play," Patrick said. "We want it to be challenging, but also allow set it up so that we are able to provide opportunities for our younger players to get time on the court when they can gain some experience being successful.

"A few of the things that jump out to me when I look at our schedule are that every single team we will play will be extremely well coached and many of them have had some tremendous success in recent years. Not only will we play teams that will challenge us physically, but they will present a variety of offensive and defensive systems that will force us to become more organized and be terrific learning experiences for our younger players."

The Lady Vols will play a total of 30 regular-season matches, including 14 at home at Thompson-Boling Arena where it has put together a dominating 24-5 record over the past two seasons.

UT will take on 20 different opponents during the 2010 campaign, including seven that reached the NCAA Tournament last year and five that finished the season either ranked or receiving votes in the AVCA poll.

The Orange and White will kick things off by hosting the eighth annual Comcast Lady Vol Classic, August 27-28 at Thompson-Boling Arena. Tennessee will welcome Xavier, Virginia Tech and Chattanooga to Rocky Top for the two-day competition, christening the 2010 campaign with a 7 p.m. showdown with Xavier on Friday. UT will then play a double-header on Saturday, squaring off against Chattanooga at noon and Virginia Tech at 7 p.m.

Following their lone home tournament of the year, the Lady Vols will travel to the Lone Star State for three matches at the University of Houston, September 3-4. The Big Orange will open the weekend with a 3:30 p.m. CT match-up against Oklahoma. It will then play two matches the following day, opening with defending Atlantic Coast Conference champion and 2009 NCAA Regional finalist Florida State at 10 a.m. before closing out its stay in Texas with a 7:30 p.m. contest against the host Cougars.

Tennessee will then close out the tournament portion of its schedule at Ohio University on Sept. 10-11 in Athens, Ohio. While there, the Lady Vols will take on Pittsburgh at 5 p.m. on Friday and Northwestern and the defending Mid-American Conference champion Bobcats at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m., respectively, on Saturday.

From there, the Lady Vols will then return home to open Southeastern Conference play against South Carolina and Florida on Sept. 17 and 19, before hitting the road for matches at Georgia and Auburn the following week. Following eight more league contests, the Big Orange will finish off its non-conference slate when it hosts its annual rivalry match against Louisville on Wednesday, Oct. 27 at 7 p.m.

"As close as last year's SEC race was, I think that is going to become more and more typical over the next few years as the parity in our league continues to increase," Patrick said. "Our league is becoming one where if you don't come to play, both mentally and physically, every match, there is a very real possibility that you can lose to any of the other 10 teams on any given day. The SEC is quickly becoming one of the elite conferences in the nation as evidenced by the fact that we finished with four teams in the top-25 at the end of last season.

"I am always excited for our annual match against Louisville. It has developed into a very good-natured rivalry and is a fun, inter-regional match that produces high-level volleyball out of both teams every year."

Tennessee will then close out the season with eight consecutive SEC matches, highlighted by visit from defending conference champion LSU on Friday, Nov. 12 and a season-ending showdown against border-rival Kentucky on Wednesday, Nov. 24. The Orange and White won both contests against the Wildcats in thrilling fashion during the regular season last year before UK marched its way to the NCAA Tournament regional semifinals where it fell to Florida State.

Entering the 2010 campaign, the expectations are as high as they have ever been at Rocky Top and the Lady Vols certainly aren't going to back away from them though.

"Our number one priority is always going to be to win an SEC championship," Patrick said. "We feel comfortable with how hard our players are working and they all know that they have put in the time and energy necessary to reach that goal. We are excited about getting out on the court and proving what we are capable of this season."

Head Coach Rob Patrick

ROB PATRICK

14th Year at Tennessee

Two-time National Coach of the Year Rob Patrick has developed a tradition of excellence since coming to Tennessee 13 years ago. Following his arrival at Rocky Top, Patrick has become one of the nation's top coaches and helped the Lady Vols attain levels of success never before reached in Knoxville, as evidenced by NCAA Tournament berths in five of the last six years, including a run to the Final Four in 2005.

With an impressive 24-8 record in 2009, the Big Orange now has won 20 or more matches in six of the last eight campaigns and has done so seven times in a 10-year span. Prior to Patrick's arrival at UT in 1997, the Lady Vols last recorded a 20-win season in 1988. His nine-year stretch of winning seasons from 1998-2006 marked the longest-such run in program history, topping the previous high of seven, set from 1978-84.

The Big Orange finished the 2009 campaign with a school-record 16 wins in SEC action, finishing in a tie for second before earning its fifth bid to the NCAA Tournament in the past six seasons where it reached the second round.

Following a tough 2007 season, the Lady Vols regrouped to post the third-largest turnaround in NCAA Division I in 2008. Under Patrick's direction, UT doubled its win total from 11 to 22 and returned to the NCAA Tournament after a one-year absence. For his efforts, Patrick was named the American Volleyball Coaches Association (AVCA) South Region Coach of the Year, as well as the Southeastern Conference Coach of the Year, for the second time in his career.

During his 13-year tenure at Rocky Top, Patrick has compiled an impressive 267-143 (.651) record, and he became the program's all-time winningest coach with a 3-0 victory over Auburn on Oct. 3,2008.

Under Patrick's guidance, eight different student-athletes have been named All-Americans on a total of 15 occasions, including Nikki Fowler who claimed honorable mention honors from the AVCA in 2008 before picking up the honors alongside libero Chloe Goldman in 2009. Prior to those awards, the last players to accomplish the feat were Yuliya Stoyanova and Sarah Blum who both picked up AVCA Honorable Mention accolades as well, following the 2006 campaign.

In 2005, four Lady Vols earned national distinction for their achievements on the court. A pair of seniors, middle blocker Kristen Andre and libero Amy Morris, both claimed All-America status from Vball Magazine, being named to the first and third teams, respectively, while fellow classmate setter Julie Knytych, sophomore outside hitter Stoyanova (both honorable mention) and Andre (second team) also earned AVCA All-America status.

Those awards came on the heels of the program's first ever appearance in the NCAA Final Four and highest year-end ranking in school history. During that memorable year, the Lady Vols fought past some early season obstacles and compiled a stellar 25-9 overall record, finishing sixth in the nation after falling to eventual national champion Washington in the national semifinals of the NCAA Tournament in San Antonio, Texas. For his efforts, Patrick was named the 2005 NCAA National Coach of the Year by VBall Magazine.

The season before its run to the Final Four, Tennessee put together an equally impressive season in which it emerged victorious in a school-record 32 matches, while dropping just three contests all year.

The Lady Vols accomplished a number of goals in 2004, including winning an SEC regular-season title for the first time in school history, defeating Florida, 3-2, on the final day of the season to tie the Gators with identical 15-1 marks. Just a mere seven days later, the Orange and White made it two titles in two weeks, topping UF, once again by a 3-2 score, in the SEC Tournament championship match.

A couple of weeks following that accomplishment, the Big Orange won a pair of NCAA Tournament matches for the initial time in Tennessee annals and advanced to the Sweet 16 for the first time in 20 years.

Based on the team's fast rise to prominence, Patrick was awarded both the AVCA South Region and the SEC Coach of the Year awards, as well as CVU.com National Coach of the Year honors. He was also a finalist for the AVCA National Coach of the Year award.

Under his tutelage that season, four Lady Vols earned All-America honors, including juniors Knytych (third team), Morris, Andre and senior outside hitter Michelle Piantadosi (honorable mention).

In addition to the eight All-Americans that he has coached, 34 players under Patrick's guidance have been selected to All-SEC teams in the past 13 seasons, including the 2004 SEC Defensive Player of the Year Morris, 2007 SEC Freshman of the Year Fowler and 2009 Libero of the Year Goldman

The success of the Tennessee volleyball program is not limited to on-the-court action, however, as 47 UT volleyball student-athletes have earned a spot on an Academic All-SEC list a total of 90 times during Patrick's tenure.

Another testament to Patrick's coaching ability is the fact that he was chosen as the head coach for the USA/Bring It Promotions u20 Development Team at the European Global Games in Pula, Croatia, in the summers of both

TWO-TIME NATIONAL COACH OF THE YEAR

Following a memorable 2005 season, Tennessee Head Coach Rob Patrick claimed his second consecutive National Coach of the Year award, earning the distinction from Vball Magazine. The previous year, CVU.com presented him with the honor.

The 2004-06 seasons stand as arguably the greatest trio of consecutive campaigns in Lady Vol history. During that time, Patrick's squads amassed an amazing 76-24 (.760) record. The 2004 team set the school record for highest winning percentage with a 32-3 (.914) record and Patrick led his 2005 squad (25-9) further into the NCAA Tournament than any other UT team had ever gone, reaching the Final Four.

In both years, Tennessee was ranked among the top 10 in the USA Today/CSTV Top 25 Coaches Poll, finishing sixth in the nation in 2005, and soaring to as high as ninth in 2004 before ending in the 10th slot. The previous high for the Big Orange had been 13th, reached three times during the 1983 season.

2007 and 2008. He was joined by Lady Vols Mindy Flynn and Leah Hinkey at the 2007 competition, where the team placed third.

Patrick joined the UT program in July of 1997 after spending the previous three seasons as an assistant coach with national powerhouse Stanford. From 1994 to 1996, he helped lead the Cardinal to a combined 92-6 record and two NCAA championships, including title-game victories over UCLA and Hawaii in 1994 and 1996, respectively. During that stint, Stanford never lost a home match, participated in a trio of NCAA Final Fours and won three consecutive Pac-10 titles.

Patrick was a major reason for Stanford's success because of his work on the recruiting front. He was instrumental in the Cardinal's freshman class being ranked second in the nation by prep volleyball magazines in 1996 and was there to help coach the country's top class in 1994. The high school volleyball player of the year was included in both recruiting hauls.

In daily activities, Patrick assisted in formulating practice plans, running drills and working on the skill development of players. During his three years at Stanford, he trained the 1994 and 1995 National Players of the Year, the 1994 and 1996 National Freshmen of the Year, 10 All-Americans and 14 All-Pac-10 selections, including Kerri Walsh, the 2004 Athens and 2008 Beijing Olympics Beach Volleyball gold medal winner and current No. 1 female player in the world. He also coached five players who were chosen to the 1995 U.S. Olympic Festival Teams and two players who were picked to play for the USA National Team.

His expertise did not go unnoticed by the sport's national governing bodies. He was selected by USA Volleyball as one of five coaches to evaluate and choose players for the Junior National Team at tryouts held throughout the country. He also worked with the Director of Youth Development and Programs for USA Volleyball in assessing the players who were picked for the 1996 and 1997 Junior National Teams. Additionally, he was chosen to coach at the USA Volleyball 14-and-under Junior Development camp in San Jose, California.

As a club coach, Patrick was active with two highly-successful programs. From 1994 to 1996, he was head coach of the top 16-and-under age team for the Griffin Volleyball Club in San Jose. That team qualified for, and played in, the top division of the Northern California USVA juniors program. It also qualified as one of 48 teams for the 1996 Junior Olympic volleyball tournament in San Jose.

Prior to that, he was head coach of the 17-and-under squad and assistant coach for the 18-and-under team from 1987 to 1994 with the South Bay Volleyball Club in Manhattan Beach, Calif. From 1990 to 1994, his junior age group squad finished in the top 20 out of more than 200 teams at the Nike Festival volleyball tournament in Davis, Calif. In 1993, the 18-and-under team he helped coach won the tournament championship at Davis. From 1991 to 1994, more than 20 of his former club players earned NCAA Division I volleyball scholarships to schools in conferences such as the Pac-10, SEC, ACC, Big West and West Coast.

As a competitor, Patrick was a standout indoors and on the beach circuit. He played collegiate volleyball at Miami (Ohio) University and remained active in tournament competitions for several years. He twice earned United States Volleyball Association All-America distinction and owned a AAA beach rating.

Participating in the USVBA Men's Open National Championships from 1986 to 1993, his team finished in the top four from 1989 to 1993 and played in the 1991 championship match. Meanwhile, Patrick's coed squad played in the Coed Open National Championships from 1986 to 1993, reaching the open division title match from 1989 to 1992 and winning national crowns in 1990 and 1992. In the summer of 2006, the Tennessee coach claimed yet another national championship, this time in the 40 & Over Division.

Originally from Cleveland, Ohio, Patrick also played football in college. He served as president of the volleyball club during his last two years at MU and received his bachelor's degree in business, with emphasis in accounting, from Miami in 1983. In addition to his coaching pursuits, Patrick worked as the vice president for a large homebuilding company for three years and served as a financial consultant in the real estate field industry before beginning his coaching duties at Stanford.

Rob and his wife Julie, an assistant volleyball coach at Maryville College, were married in April 2008 and reside in Knoxville.

UP CLOSE WITH ROB PATRICK

What is your coaching philosophy?
"The goal of our program is to develop young adults and teach them life skills through academic and athletic pursuits at the University of Tennessee. On the court, we strive to recruit the best volleyball athletes and then put them in positions that maximize the skills that they bring to our team."

What is your favorite memory from your time as the UT volleyball coach?
"Beating Florida on their home court to win the 2004 SEC Championship and break their NCAA-record winning streak is my favorite memory. Winning that match in five games and then going back down to Gainesville and beating them again in the SEC Tournament Championship the next week gave me a feeling of accomplishment that all our hard work had been worth the effort."

What do you like most about coaching?
"The relationships that are forged with the players and their families. To be able to watch an individual progressively increase their skill level as a player and know that I had an influence on their life is very satisfying to me."

What are some things that would surprise people about you?
"Most people are surprised by the variety of things that I have done. I played football as well as men's club volleyball in college. I went on a week-long cattle drive in 2005. I have gone sky diving, scuba diving and skiing at three different Olympic venues. In 1982, I took a five-week trip around the United States, during which I visited 38 states. I have also traveled to 16 different countries in Europe including Bulgaria, Croatia, Hungary, Italy, Poland, Romania, Slovenia and the Czech Republic."

In his third year at the University of Tennessee, assistant coach Gregg Whitis serves as the team's recruiting coordinator and is involved in all phases of the program, including on-court coaching and scouting.

Whitis has made an immediate impact at UT, bringing in the nation's fourth-rated recruiting class in 2010 as ranked by PrepVolleyball.com

Whitis came to Rocky Top after spending two seasons at Michigan where he helped head coach Mark Rosen guide the squad to back-to-back NCAA Tournament appearances, including the program's first ever berth in the Sweet 16.

In 2007, the Wolverines finished with the third-most wins in program history, reached its highest national ranking (No. 10) and spent every week of the season either ranked or receiving votes in the AVCA Top 25 poll.

One of the top recruiters in the country, Whitis has found success at every stop in his 14-year coaching career. Assistant Coach Dani Busboom

DANI BUSBOOM

Second Year at Tennessee

The University of Tennessee and head volleyball coach Rob Patrick announced the hiring of Dani Busboom as the team's new assistant coach in March 2009.

A former standout player at Nebraska, Busboom brings a wealth of experience to Rocky Top, having guided the Huskers to three conference championships, two NCAA finals appearances and a national title during her four-year career in Lincoln.

Busboom works with all facets of the UT volleyball team, including training the team's setters, coordinating its travel and equipment needs and running the school's summer volleyball camps. She also has additional responsibilities with recruiting and tape breakdown.

Busboom was the ultimate team player during her career at Nebraska, transitioning to libero during her senior campaign after starting at the setter position the previous three seasons. A four-year starter, she concluded her career as one of only two players ranked among the top-10 in NU history in both digs and assists, finishing second on the digs chart with 1,281 and third in career assists with 2,925. The Cortland, Neb., native guided the Huskers to a 124-10 record, the best four-year mark in school history, three Big 12 titles, two NCAA finals appearances and a national title in 2006.

During her senior season, Busboom set the Nebraska single-season digs record with 580 scoops in her first year as the team's starting libero. She was named the 2006 Big 12 co-Libero of the Year after leading the conference with 5.04 digs per game and reaching double figures in digs in 32 of 34 matches, including a 21-dig performance in the national championship win over No. 2 Stanford.

Not all of her accolades came on the court, however, as she also excelled in the classroom. In addition to earning a spot on the Big 12 Commissioner's Honor Roll on six different occasions, Busboom also claimed First-Team Academic All-Big 12 honors three times and was named to the 2006 CoSIDA/ESPN The Magazine Academic All-District VII Team. She earned a bachelor's degree in communication studies from Nebraska in 2007.

Following her graduation, Busboom spent time with the U.S. Women's National Training Team before moving on to a career as a sales representative for an Omaha insurance company. She also has worked as the sideline reporter for radio broadcasts of Nebraska volleyball matches on the Husker Sports Network and has assisted with the Elite Volleyball Youth Development Program in both Lincoln and Omaha.

Dani and her husband, former Nebraska football player Lane Kelly, were married in the summer of 2010 and reside in Knoxville.

What do you like most about coaching?

"My favorite things about coaching are the relationships you build and the team atmosphere. I love working in a group setting when there is a common goal."

What is something that would surprise people about you?

"I grew up on a farm and graduated high school with 20 kids in my class…five boys and 15 girls."

What is your favorite book and why?

"Well, right now I am definitely on a Twilight kick, but I really do enjoy most movies and books."

Who do you feel has been the biggest influence in your life and why?

"First and foremost, I would say my parents. They both are very hardworking and great all-around people. If I end up just like them, I will have a pretty good life.

What, in your opinion, are the essential attributes necessary for a player to have in order to be successful?

"To be successful you have to have the desire and drive to be great. I think the mental game is just as important as the physical game. At the Division I level all kids are physical; it's the ones who have the mental edge that end up on top."

Setter
5-10 • Junior-2L

Fort Worth, Texas
Keller-Central H.S.

ROB PATRICK ON MAHONEY: "Kelsey has done a great job this off-season. She's stronger, is more comfortable on the court and I think she really understands the whole gamut of what our team is about. That includes the tempo offense and how to run it, as well as what our hitters are good at and where their best attacks come from. She has really put herself in a position to 'quarterback' our offense and provide more of a leadership role on the court. To have a setter with as much experience as Kelsey has is really going to help us to be a better team in the long run."

DEEDEE HARRISON

Middle Blocker
6-3 • Sophomore-1L

Nashville, Tenn.
Hillsboro H.S.

ROB PATRICK ON HARRISON: "DeeDee has been a steady work in progress and she has put herself in a position to make a significant impact in matches this season. We expect her to be learning on the fly a little bit, but, physically, she is somebody we feel we can match up with anybody in the country in the middle. She has worked extremely hard over the past few years to put herself in this position and she is going to have a great opportunity to play a lot for us. As she continues to become more consistent, she is probably going to have the largest offensive impact on our team, in terms of not only providing us with a middle presence, but opening up areas for our other hitters, because teams will have to concentrate on stopping her. We are very excited about her development and can't wait to see her take off."

2009 (REDSHIRT FRESHMAN): Saw action in 15 sets, spanning nine matches, during her second season at Tennessee…Made her first collegiate appearance in UT's season opener against Tennessee Tech...Clinched the victory with her first career kill...Had two attacks in the Lady Vols' four-set loss to Colorado State on Sept. 12...Added the first two blocks of her career later that afternoon as UT swept Marshall to close out its stay at the Carolina Classic...Picked up another block against Georgia on Oct. 9...Closed out the second set of UT's 3-0 sweep of Mississippi State on Nov. 6 with a monstrous kill, her second of her career...Earned her first collegiate start at Georgia on Nov. 15 and made the most of it...Pounded out eight kills, including four in the opening frame, in addition to collecting seven blocks and the first dig of her career… Came off the bench to give UT a timely kill in it's thrilling, five-set victory over No. 10 Kentucky to finish off the regular season.

ROB PATRICK ON MULLINS: "Ellen is going to bring a tremendous amount of energy to our program. She is a very strong, skilled player who has set and hit in both club and high school. Although she will play more of a defensive specialist role here at Tennessee, her volleyball IQ is extremely high because she has played a number of positions. Once she becomes comfortable with her defensive responsibilities, she will be a tremendous asset for us."

KELSEY ROBINSON

Outside Hitter
6-2 • Freshman-HS

Bartlett, Ill.
Wheaton-St. Francis H.S.

ROB PATRICK ON ROBINSON: "It's really neat to get someone like Kelsey into our program. She has played at an elite level over the past few years in both high school and club and has been a little bit of a marked person in that other teams really geared up to stop her. She's going to be able to come in and compete at a high level immediately because she knows how to adapt on the court and is a player that is used to touching the ball a ton for her teams. She passed the ball, has a rocket jump serve, can play middle-back and is a great defender, was set more than anyone else and can block effectively. She's been a workhorse in the past, but the good thing is that we don't need her to play that role this year. She can come in and concentrate on her defense and passing and just take whatever comes to her offensively."

ROB PATRICK ON SAHAGIAN: "Carly is one of those quiet assassins. She plays very even keeled. It doesn't matter if she just got five kills in a row or was blocked five times in a row, she is going to come right back at you with the same intensity and the same quiet confidence. She is another six-rotation player that has touched the ball a lot for her high school and club teams. She controls the ball at a high level in terms of passing and digging and can be a force at the net, where I think she plays higher than most people realize. Once she gains a little bit of strength, I see her being a pretty big surprise to other teams around our league. She has the ability to play a big role for us immediately this year because she can help to solidify our defense and ball control."

Farragut H.S.

ROB PATRICK ON SCHEIDT: "The first thing we are going to do is look in our backyard for talent and in the past we just haven't had that available so we are very excited that Kylann was here in Knoxville and decided to come to Tennessee. She is going to be a little different than the setters we have had in the past in that she is going to be a force at the net. She is as athletic or more athletic than any setter we've ever had and is able to set at the net at a higher level, physically, than we've been able to do. Kylann is also a fearless setter. She will really force the ball to our middle hitters and believes she can set the ball to anybody at any time. It was great that she was able to come in and learn our system during the spring because the one thing she needed to get better at was her consistency and she really worked hard with Dani Busboom on that. Over the course of the last six months she really increased her skill level and took a lot of reps, so we are very excited about her development, as well as the physicality that she can bring to the court, especially defensively."

HIGH SCHOOL/CLUB: The first signee from Knoxville in Rob Patrick's 13-year tenure at Rocky Top…Prepped at Farragut High School where started for three seasons, earning captain status as a senior…Also lettered three seasons in basketball…Originally from Firth, Neb.…Played her freshman campaign at Norris High, claiming all-state honorable mention and top newcomer awards..Ranked No. 21 on PrepVolleyball.com's Senior Aces chart…Joined the Tennessee program in January…Was named the District 4-AAA Newcomer of the Year and was a member of the region all-tournament team as a sophomore in 2007…Led her squad to a 48-7 record and the sectional round of the playoffs in 2008, picking up all-state accolades, earning MVP honors in the district and region tournaments and being selected as the Knoxville News Sentinel's 2008 PrepXtra Player of the Year…As a senior in 2009, she was a nominee for the Gatorade Player of the Year after guiding the Lady Ads to their third straight district title and a 41-10 record..Also took home league MVP accolades for the second consecutive season and was awarded a spot on the 2009-10 Under Armour Girls' High School All-America Watch List…Spent time with USA Volleyball's Junior National Training Team in Chula Vista, Calif., in 2008 and 2009 as well…Played club volleyball with the Smokey Mountain Juniors.

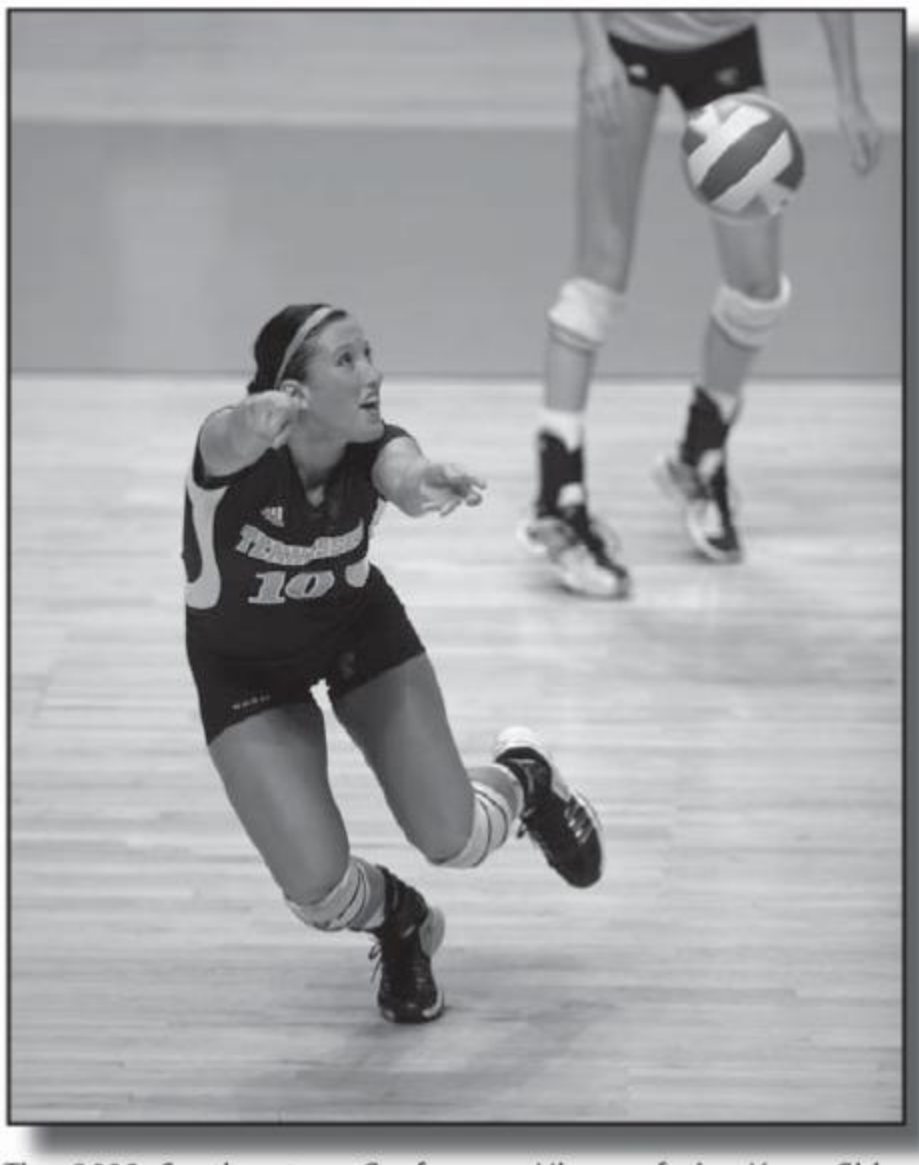
2009 Season In Review

The University of Tennessee volleyball team prides itself on being tough. Tough to defend, tough to attack, tough to beat, mentally tough, and the 2009 campaign proved to be no different. After watching it set a school record for conference victories, return to the NCAA Tournament for the fifth time in six years and win a total of 24 matches, there were few doubters, that last season's version of Lady Vol volleyball was "Built Tennessee Tough."

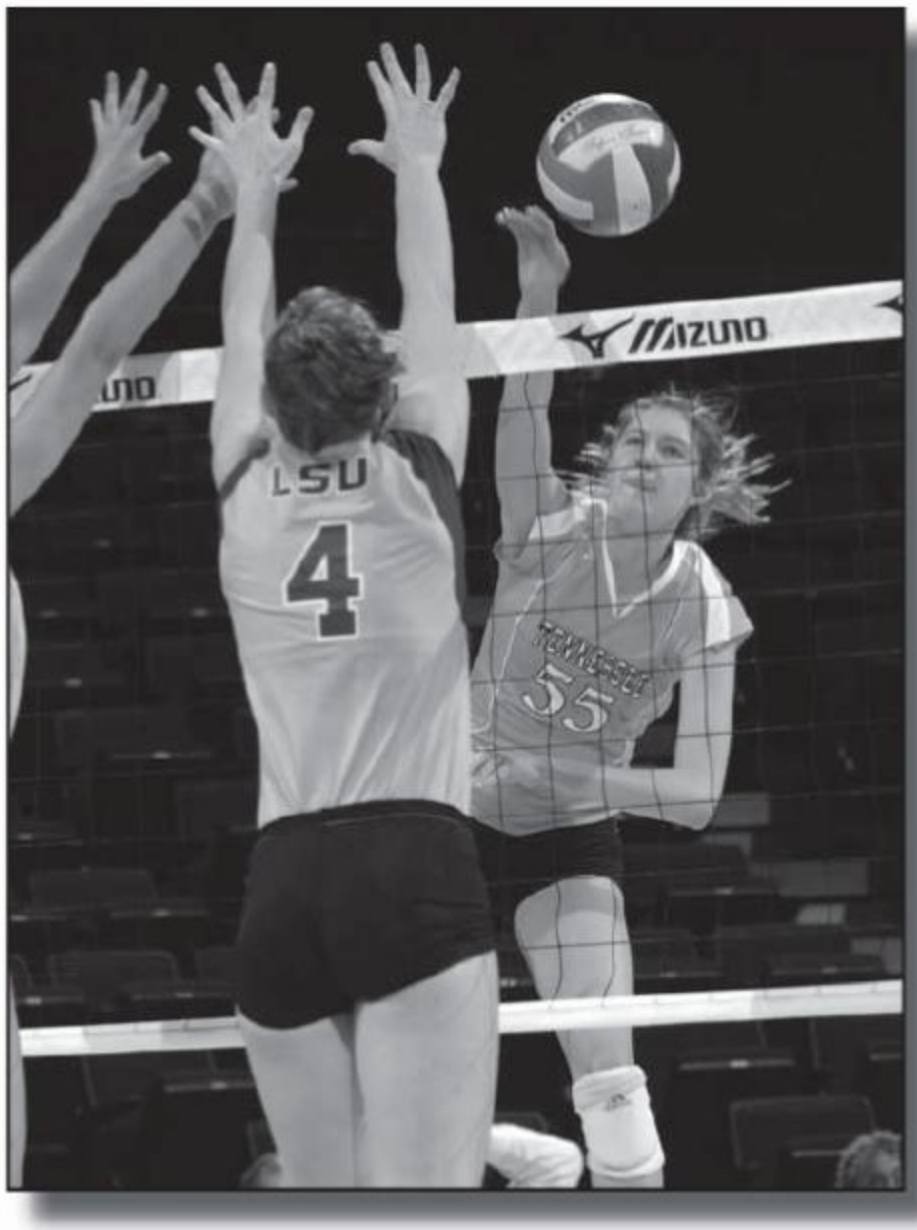
A total of five different players took home some sort of postseason accolade last year, tying the school record set three times previously. Topping the list of players with fantastic seasons were junior Nikki Fowler and senior Chloe Goldman, both of whom were named American Volleyball Coaches Association Honorable Mention All-Americans.

An AVCA All-South Region honoree, the 2009 Southeastern Conference Libero of the Year and an All-SEC First Team member, Goldman shattered the Tennessee record for career digs, finishing with a total of 1,755 to break the previous record by 281 and place her fourth in the conference record book. She also finishes her collegiate career with the top digs per set average in program history with 4.37 scoops per set during her four years at Rocky Top.

The Monterey, Calif., native led the SEC in 2009 with 568 digs and 4.73 digs per set, becoming the first player to record three consecutive seasons with 500+ digs while donning the Orange and White. Goldman also holds the three highest single-season dig totals in school history with her 2009 tally ranking second behind only her 628 scoops in 2007.



The 2009 Southeastern Conference Libero of the Year, Chloe Goldman finished her Lady Vol career with an unbelievable 1,755 digs, breaking the previous school record by 281 and placing her fourth in the SEC record book.



Junior Nikki Fowler continued her assault on the Tennessee record book in 2009, leading the team in kills (459), kills per set (3.79), attacks (1268), points (542.0) and points per set (4.48).

A 6-2 outside hitter, Fowler was Tennessee's best all-around player this season, finishing the year with 16 consecutive double-doubles. The Dallas, Texas, product and member of the AVCA All-South region squad was also named to the All-SEC First Team for the second straight year after staking claim to the league's offensive player of the week a record four times, including three consecutive weeks from Nov. 9-23. She has now earned the honors seven times in the past two seasons, tying her for the most in a career with Florida's Aury Cruz.

During the 2009 campaign, Fowler led the Lady Vols with 459 kills, 3.79 kills per set, 1,268 attacks, 542.0 points and 4.48 points per set. She currently ranks 12th on Tennessee's career kills chart with 1,256 and will need 526 in her senior season to break the school record. Her accomplishments aren't limited to the hardwood, however, as she was also named to the ESPN The Magazine Academic All-District IV First Team for the second straight season.

Also taking home postseason honors were senior Farren Powe, sophomore Kayla Jeter and freshman Leslie Cikra.

In just her second year at Rocky Top, Jeter blossomed into one of the most effective attackers in the conference, earning All-SEC Second Team laurels. The Solon, Ohio, product ranked second on UT roster with 353 kills and 2.92 kills per set. She was named the SEC Player of the Week in the final week of the regular season after blasting out career-high 23 kills and hitting .422 in victory over No. 10 Kentucky on Nov. 25.

Jeter led the Lady Vols in kills in nine matches, in blocks on two occasions and finished the regular season ranked ninth and 10th in the SEC, respectively, with an average of 3.27 kills per set and a .287 attack average in league matches.

Also picking up All-SEC Second Team honors for the first time in her career was Powe. A year after leading the conference in hitting percentage, the 6-1 middle blocker from Mobile, Ala., finished the 2009 campaign ranked eighth with a .306 attack average during SEC play. She also placed sixth with an average of 1.17 blocks per set in league contests. Overall, Powe finished her final season with 203 kills and 139 blocks, including a squad-best 18 solo putbacks.

A rookie from Chagrin Falls, Ohio, Cikra was tabbed to the All-SEC Freshman Team after posting 153 kills in 32 matches, including 24 starts. She also tallied 45 blocks and 33 digs during her first year at Tennessee. A 6-3 outside hitter/middle blocker, Cikra reached double-digits in kills four times, topping out at 14 versus Western Kentucky on Aug. 29.

Tennessee wasted precious little time getting its season started on the right foot, sweeping through its competition at the Comcast Lady Vol Classic, Aug. 29-30, at Thompson-Boling Arena. Although Western Kentucky took the Big Orange to five sets, UT easily dispatched both Tennessee Tech and Lipscomb in three frames.

The next weekend, No. 7 Michigan would hand the Lady Vols their first loss of the year in the opening contest of the Xavier Invitational in Cincinnati, but the Orange and White responded well, cruising past a talented Notre Dame squad and the host Musketeers over the following two days.

UT's second road trip would not go quite as well, however, as it dropped back-to-back contests to North Carolina and Colorado State to start its stay at the Carolina Classic, Sept. 11-12. Once again, the Lady Vols would regroup and fight off a scrappy Marshall squad in three sets, the first of which was one of the longest in NCAA history as UT squeaked out a 37-35 victory.

With its record at 6-3, Tennessee traveled to the Pelican State to open the SEC portion of its schedule. The Orange and White's tough times on the road continued though and the eventual league champion Tigers sent UT home with a five-set loss.

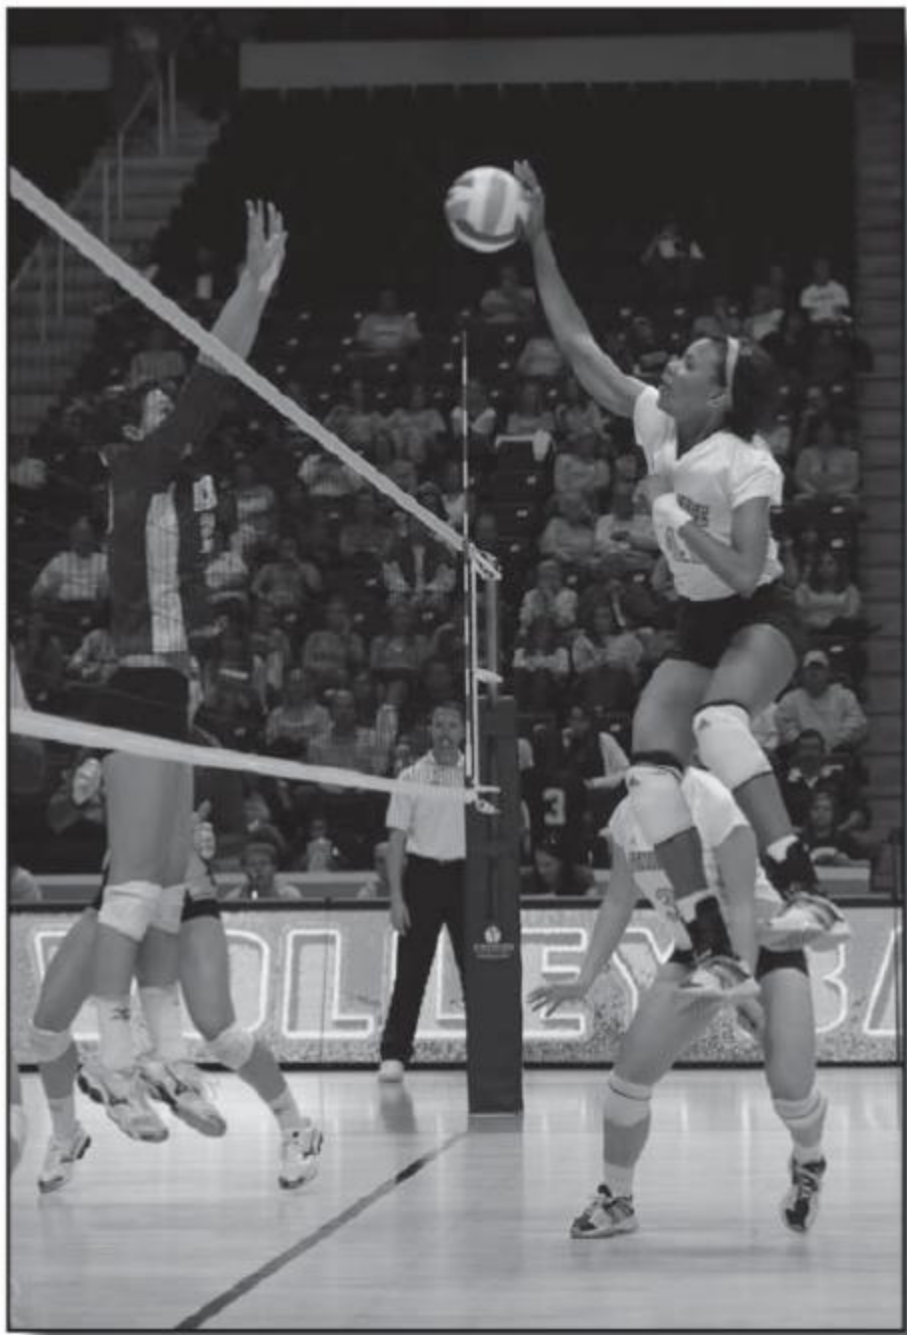
The Lady Vols wouldn't feel the sting of that loss for long as they proceeded to rattle off four straight wins, including three in SEC play and a come-from-behind, five-set road victory over Louisville in what was their final non-conference match of the regular season. Following a 3-1 win at South Carolina in its next match, Tennessee would suffer another setback, however, falling in three sets against Florida two days later.

That defeat proved to be a blip on the radar as the Big Orange then rattled off wins in nine of its next 10 contests. It's only loss in that span would come at the hands of the pesky LSU Tigers once again.

With its foot firmly on the gas pedal and still very much in contention for its first SEC title since 2004, Tennessee traveled to Auburn, Ala., on Nov. 8with a 19-6 overall record and 12-3

Senior Kylie Marshall finished her Tennessee career as one of the best all-around players in school history. During her time at Rocky Top, she led the Big Orange to an impressive 76-48 record, including a pair of 20-win seasons, three appearances in the NCAA Tournament and six victories over nationally-ranked squads.

2009 Season In Review



Senior Farren Powe picked up All-SEC Second Team honors for the first time in her career in 2009. She finished the season ranked eighth with a .306 attack average during SEC play in addition to placing sixth with an average of 1.17 blocks per set in league contests.

mark in league play. Its momentum would be halted in quick and dramatic fashion though, as it was unable to close out the Tigers despite winning the first two sets. Although that fourth league loss effectively knocked them out of the SEC race, the Lady Vols did not let it damper their spirits as they returned the favor against Georgia two days later to reach the 20-win mark for the seventh time in 10 years and 18th time in school history. Back home in Thompson-Boling Arena for the final three matches of the regular season, UT definitely took advantage of its opportunity to close out the schedule in style. Playing in front of the third largest crowd in program history on Nov. 20, the Orange and White claimed an impressive, come-from-behind triumph over 13th-ranked Florida, winning in four sets after dropping the opening frame.

Following a quick sweep of South Carolina, the Lady Vols then hosted No. 10 Kentucky, which came into the Nov. 25 match with a chance to claim the SEC title. Tennessee wasn't going to let that happen on its home court though, fighting off four match-points in the fifth frame to knock off their second top-15 opponent in five days. The win also marked the 750th in program history and was UT's single-season record setting 16th league victory.

With the regular season portion of the schedule in the books, the Lady Vols earned the opportunity to host the first and second rounds of the NCAA Tournament for the fifth time in six years and 11tth time in program history, with Louisville, Duke and No. 11 Minnesota making the trip to Rocky Top.

Tennessee opened the postseason against the Blue Devils. It rode the arms of Jeter and Fowler to a four-set triumph as the two combined to blast out 35 of UT's 54 kills with totals of 18 and 17, respectively. Fowler added 12 digs and seven blocks as well, to finish with her 15th consecutive double-double and 36th of her career. Jeter also posted a solid all-around effort, collecting six digs and three blocks. The match was played in front of the largest home postseason crowd in UT history, as 1,059 fans clicked the turnstiles on Friday. That bested the previous mark of 683 set against Eastern Kentucky on Dec. 3, 2004 and stands as the seventh-highest total for any home match in program history.

Unfortunately, the 2009 campaign would come to an end for the Lady Vols the next day as they were unable to overcome a strong effort by the Golden Gophers and fell in three sets. The loss marked the conclusion of the collegiate careers of UT's four seniors: Carol Cheade, Powe, Kylie Marshall and Goldman. The quartet led the Big Orange to an impressive 76-48 record during its time at Rocky Top, including a pair of 20-win seasons, three appearances in the NCAA Tournament and six victories over nationally-ranked squads.

Goldman and Marshall concluded their careers ranked first and third, respectively, on Tennessee's all-time career digs chart. The 2009 Southeastern Conference Libero of the Year, Goldman finished with an unbelievable 1,755 digs, breaking the previous school record by 281 and placing her fourth in the SEC record book. Marshall, meanwhile, scooped up 1,374 attacks during her four years in Knoxville. Powe will also be able to find her name in the UT annals, as she finished with a career hitting percentage of .274, good for ninth all-time.

Fowler ended her junior year on a high note, notching her 15th straight double-double with team-high totals of 11 kills and 13 digs in the loss to the Gophers. The two-time All-SEC First Team selection was the team's top offensive weapon in 2009, finishing with the team lead in kills (459), kills per set (3.79), attacks (1268), points (542.0) and points per set (4.48). She currently ranks 12th on Tennessee's career kills chart and will need 526 in her senior season to break the school record.

In addition to the all of the individual records that were broken in 2009, Tennessee was also able to set a new attendance standard, shattering the previous single-season attendance record with 15-match total of 11,585, breaking the previous mark of 9,565 set in 2005. The Lady Vols also set the record for average attendance with 772 fans coming through the turnstiles for each contest in Thompson-Boling Arena in 2009.

The Lady Vol volleyball team definitely lived up to its reputation in 2009. Every time the going got tough, UT got going. By the end of the year, Patrick and staff had melded a group of tough-minded and match-tested athletes to form a winning vehicle that traveled deep into the postseason. The Lady Vols proved themselves to be legitimate contenders and continued to show opponents what it means to be "Built Tennessee Tough."

The Southeastern Conference

"THE STANDARD FOR EXCELLENCE"

The Southeastern Conference, with its storied 77-year history of athletic achievements and academic excellence, has built perhaps the greatest tradition of intercollegiate competition of any league in the country since its inception in 1933.

The 2009-10 academic year was another season to remember for the SEC as conference teams captured four national titles and four national runner-up finishes. The SEC has won consecutive national championships in baseball and football. Since 1990, the SEC has won 135 national team championships for an average of more than six per year.

Alabama won the SEC's first national title of the year with its win in the BCS National Championship Game in football. It is the SEC's fourth consecutive football national title. Florida captured its second women's swimming and diving national championship. Florida also won its first ever championship in men's indoor track and field. South Carolina won the national championship in the sport of baseball. Florida finished first among Southeastern Conference schools and second overall in the Director's Cup final standings.

Overall, the SEC finished in the top two in nine of its 20 sponsored sports and in the top five in 14 of the 20 sports. Ten SEC teams participated in football postseason bowls with Alabama, Florida, Ole Miss, Arkansas, Auburn and Georgia winning the BCS National Title Game, Sugar, Cotton, Liberty, Outback and Independence bowls, respectively. Four men's basketball teams were invited to the NCAA Tournament and seven women's basketball teams were also invited to the NCAA Tournament. The SEC had a eight teams advance to postseason play in baseball hosting four regionals with South Carolina and Florida advancing to the College World Series. With 145 teams advancing to NCAA postseason competition, the SEC continued to solidify its place as the nation's premier conference.

In addition to the four team championships, 41 SEC student-athletes garnered individual national championships, while 440 individuals were awarded with First-Team All-American Honors. Student-athletes around the league continued to excel in the classroom as well with more than 2,300 earning recognition on the SEC Academic Honor Roll.

On the national all-sport level, 11 SEC schools placed in the top 60 of the NACDA Director's Cup rankings. Florida led the league with a second place finish. Tennessee placed 16th while LSU was 19th; Georgia finished 20th, Alabama 23rd, Auburn 26th, Kentucky 29th, South Carolina 41st, Arkansas 46th, Ole Miss 56th and Vanderbilt 59th to round out the league's top-60 finishes.

SOUTHEASTERN CONFERENCE
HISTORY AND RECORDS

VOLLEYBALL IN THE SEC

The Southeastern Conference continues to flourish as a solid and competitive league in women's collegiate volleyball. In the last two decades, the SEC has made stellar contributions in volleyball. The conference has sent at least two SEC teams to the NCAA Tournament in every season the last 20 years. The SEC had a team reach the Final Four seven of the 10 seasons in the '90s with the league having a team advance to the regional final nine of those 10 seasons. Since 2000, the SEC has had a team reach the Final Four three times and a regional final four times.

The LSU Tigers won the 2009 SEC title, marking their fifth in program history, first since 1991. It is the first SEC title for head coach Fran Flory and also snapped an 18-year reign by the Florida Gators. Four teams from the SEC made the NCAA Tournament, including Florida, Kentucky, LSU and Tennessee.

Since the inaugural SEC volleyball championship in 1979-80, many changes have occurred in the conference with volleyball. The addition of Arkansas and South Carolina to the league in 1991 brought the divisional format to the sport with five teams competing in the Eastern Division and six teams in the Western Division.

In 2009, the SEC entered into an unprecedented TV agreement with ESPN that will provide exclusive coverage of SEC athletics. In the arrangement, SEC volleyball is now be broadcast on three different platforms: ESPNU, FS South/Southwest/Sun Sports and CSS. Live SEC volleyball coverage can now reach into 73 million homes nation-wide on ESPNU, and in the SEC nine-state region, 25 million homes on FS South/Southwest/Sun Sports, and 10 million homes on CSS.

SEC COACHES BEACH VOLLEYBALL CHAMPIONSHIPS

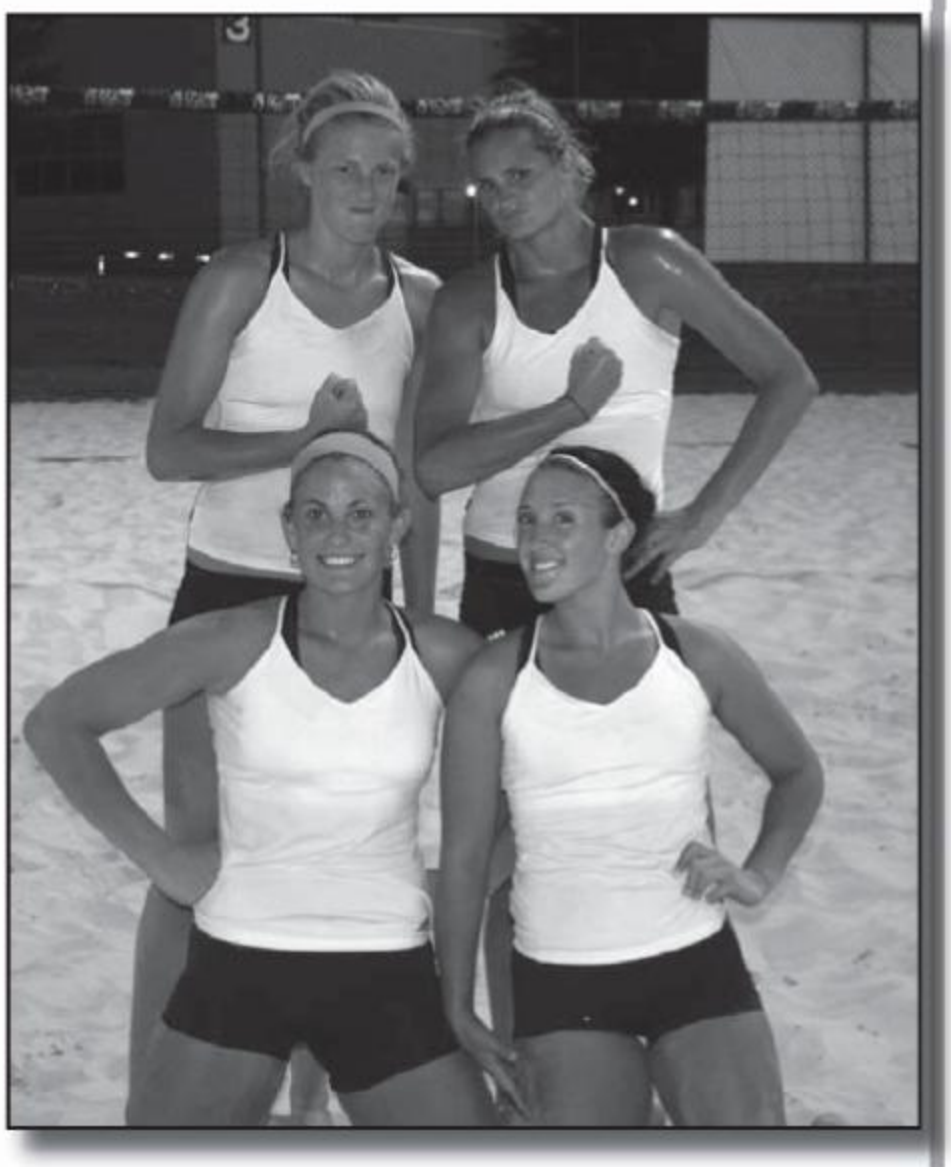
Beach volleyball was introduced to the collegiate scene by CBS College Sports Network with the Collegiate Nationals, an original event founded by the Network in the spring of 2006. That event is now in its fifth season. The coaches of the Southeastern and the Sunshine State Conferences followed with their beach tournaments in the spring of 2008.

The popularity of those events along with others that sprang up spontaneously around the country helped lead to the NCAA's Committee on Women's Athletics to recommend in the summer of 2008 that sand volleyball be added to the emerging sports list for women.

The Lady Vols have been a fixture in the winner's circle at the SEC Coaches Beach Volleyball Championships over the past three years.

The Big Orange put forth a strong showing at the inaugural competition in Gainesville, Fla., in 2008, highlighted by the duo of Milan Clarke and Laurén LaFlamme outdueling the pairing of Chloe Goldman and Leah Hinkey to earn the title in the Harvey Schiller bracket.

In 2009, the pairing of Nikki Fowler and Kylie Marshall proved highly successful, as the Tennessee tandem won all four of its playoff matches to lay claim to the Gold Division championship in Siesta Key, Fla.



"The SEC Coaches Beach Volleyball Championships have been a terrific addition for the conference. Not only does it provide the potential for more athletic opportunities for young females, but it helps our current players further develop their skill sets for the indoor game in a fun, yet highly competitive atmosphere. I could not be more excited that the SEC is leading the charge to bring collegiate beach volleyball to the forefront, which I think is very important to the overall success of the game of volleyball, in general."

NCAA Tournament History

Tennessee has appeared in national championship play in each of the last four decades dating back to 1973, when Kaye Hart's Lady Vol squad posted a 38-6 mark for the season and ended up reaching what was then the AIAW national championship tournament. In pool play, the team downed Cincinnati and Illinois-Chicago, before falling to Oregon, Houston and Long Beach State to finish 15th in the nation.

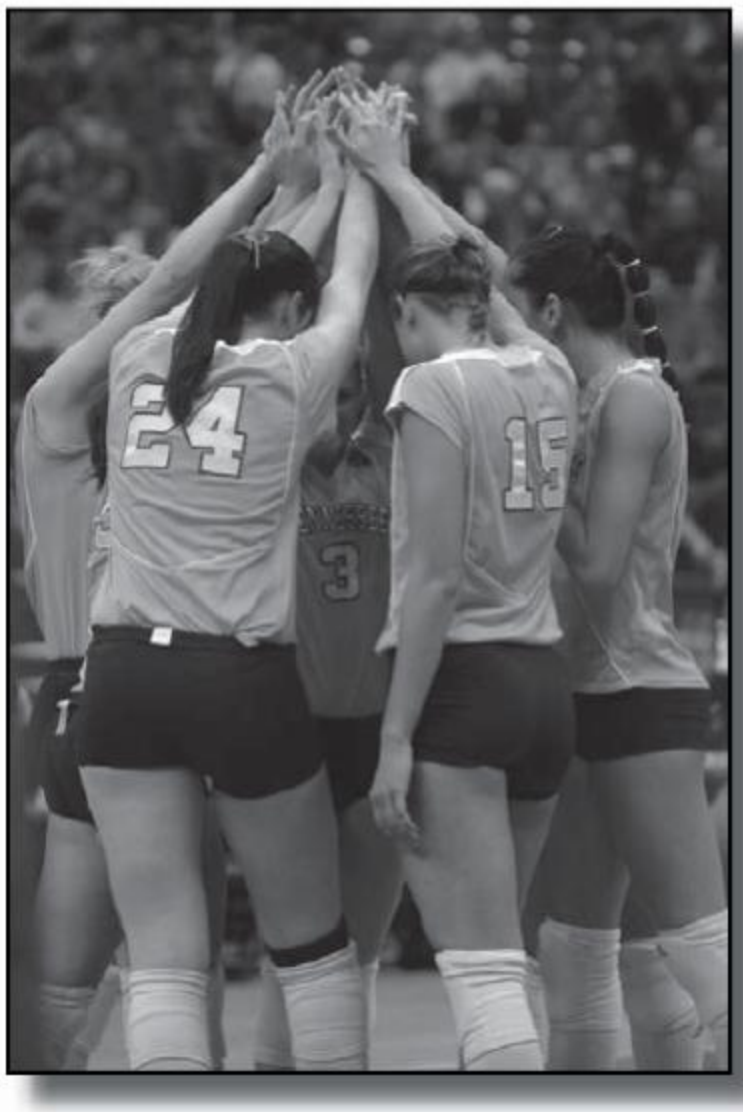
In 1981, Tennessee returned to the national scene for the first of four straight appearances in the NCAA Championships. Bob Bertucci's team finished the season at 34-22 after a three-game loss to Purdue in West Lafayette, Ind.

The next year, UT went 31-7 and registered its first-ever victory at the NCAA Championships, downing Northwestern in a thrilling five-set match. The Lady Vols then returned to West Lafayette for Mideast Regional action and were ousted by eventual NCAA runner-up Southern Cal.

The 1983 season saw Tennessee post its third straight 30-win season with an overall record of 31-10. Battling the odds, the Lady Vols traveled to Tallahassee, Fla., for their first-round match against Florida State, dropped the first two games, and still emerged with a five-game victory. This time, UT was placed in the South Regional and journeyed to Austin, Texas, where eventual national champion Hawaii eliminated the Lady Vols in three games.

The final season of Tennessee's four straight NCAA appearances, 1984, featured a 25-11 slate and another first-round triumph. The Lady Vols hosted Eastern Kentucky and won in three straight games before traveling to Austin for the second year in a row. Again, that destination proved to be the end of the road for Tennessee as Texas pinned a four-game loss on the Lady Vols.

Nine years later, in 1993, Julie Hermann became the third coach to lead the Lady Vols to a national tournament. She brought Tennessee back to the NCAA Championships as her squad concluded the season with an overall record of 18-13. The field had been expanded from 32 to 48 teams, and Tennessee hosted first-round action against Sam Houston State, posting a four-game victory. The Lady Vols then met up with a familiar foe, SEC-rival Georgia, in second-round action at Athens, Ga. Tennessee just missed out on an appearance in the "Sweet 16," dropping a four-game decision to the Lady Bulldogs.



The tournament field was again expanded in 1999, this time to 64 schools. From his experience as a part of two national championship teams at Stanford, head coach Rob Patrick used his postseason know-how to navigate the 2000 squad to the Lady Vols' first NCAA appearance in seven years, just four seasons after taking the reins of the program. Patrick's troops ventured to University Park, Pa., for a first-round match-up with the Washington State Cougars in the Pacific Region. UT's young squad dropped a three-game match to WSU on Dec. 1.

In 2004, the Lady Vols stormed their way into the NCAA tournament with a 30-2 record, before winning two tournament matches for the first time in UT volleyball history. Stokely Athletics Center welcomed in Eastern Kentucky, Texas A&M and Winthrop for its initial hosting of NCAA play. The Lady Vols swept EKU and topped the Aggies in four sets to move on to the regional semifinals and a date with Ohio State. After the Orange and White claimed the first two frames, the Buckeyes outscored the Big Orange the next three, including tight 30-26 and 15-12 results in the final two sets, to finally put one of Tennessee's best seasons in school history to an end.

The Lady Vols made a return trip to the tournament in 2005. Having learned from their experiences the previous season, they were determined to go further than ever before. The Big Orange hosted the first two rounds for the second consecutive year, with Jacksonville State, Winthrop and 2004 national finalist Minnesota traveling to Stokely Athletics Center. After making quick work of the Gamecocks, Patrick's squad found itself down late in the fourth set against the Golden Gophers. With their season on the line, the Orange and White was not going down without a fight and staged a stunning comeback to claim the five-set victory and advance to the next round to face Penn State. Once in Happy Valley, the Lady Vols continued their winning ways, ending the seasons of both the Nittany Lions and Missouri Tigers. The pair of victories clinched a visit to San Antonio, Texas, for the NCAA National Semifinals, where the team from Rocky Top was to take on Washington. The miraculous run, however, would finally come to an end as the eventual national champion Huskies proved too formidable a foe, taking Tennessee down in three sets.

Patrick once again guided his charges to the NCAA Tournament in 2006, marking the third straight campaign in which UT reached the postseason. With a youthful squad, featuring seven freshmen and four sophomores, the Lady Vols gained valuable experience but were unable to overcome a tough Duke squad, falling in four games at Stokely Athletics Center. The Orange and White concluded the season with a respectable 19-12 overall record.

Following a down year in 2007, Patrick led the Lady Vols back to the postseason for the fourth time in five years in 2008 after the team finished with a 15-5 record in SEC play and won 12 of its last 13 regular-season matches. UT didn't have to travel far, venturing to Clemson, S.C., for the opening round of the NCAA Tournament where it dropped a heartbreaking, five-set decision at the hands of the host Tigers to finish the year with a 22-10 record.

The NCAA Tournament would return to Knoxville once again in 2009, with Thompson-Boling Arena playing host for the first time. UT, which won a school-record 16 SEC matches during the regular season, defeated Duke in the opening round before falling to No. 11 Minnesota the following day. The Lady Vols finished with their seventh 20+ win campaign under Patrick, however, with an overall record of 24-8.

Thompson-Boling Arena

After spending 10 seasons in Stokely Athletics Center, the University of Tennessee volleyball team made the short move to Thompson-Boling Arena prior to the 2008 campaign.

One of the largest on-campus arenas in the country, Thompson-Boling Arena is located on the banks of the Tennessee River and was named for B. Ray Thompson and retired UT President Edward J. Boling.

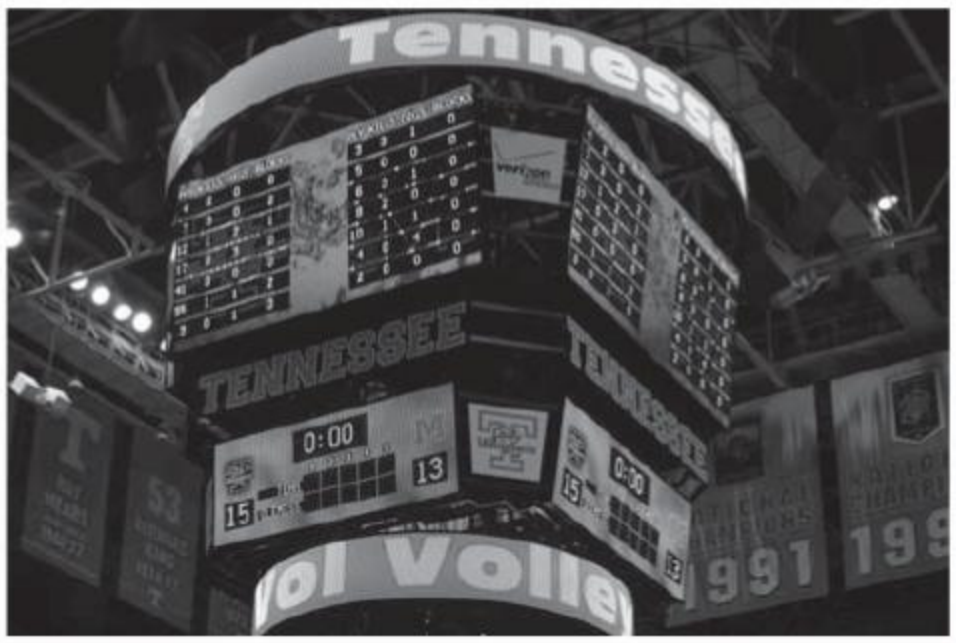
As part of a $19 million renovation of the arena in 2008, 32 luxury suites were added to the existing north balcony along with a loge area just below the suites that included 166 side court seats. A $3 million center-hung scoreboard, new black seats and several concourse refurbishments were also part of the renovation.

A continuous-ring concourse encircles the building, permitting entrance to six concession areas and 32 portals that lead to the arena. The playing floor level provides access to team dressing rooms, the press rooms and storage rooms.

Now in its third year at Thompson-Boling, the Lady Vol volleyball team plans to continue the tradition of home-court dominance that it displayed in Stokely, where it amassed an impressive 98-34 (.742) record from 1998-2007. In its first two seasons at TBA, Tennessee is doing even better than it did in Stokely with a 24-5 (.828) record in its new home.

Although contests will be played at Thompson-Boling, the Lady Vols' home away from the dorm will continue to be located at Stokely Athletics Center where a locker room/team room combination sits just feet off the practice court. In the team room, players can relax and take a break from it all, watching the big screen television from the comfort of the leather couch, or they can hit the books in the study area. Each Lady Vol also has her own personalized locker and stool in the spacious locker room.

This season, Tennessee welcomes Xavier, Chattanooga and Virginia Tech to the Comcast Lady Vol Classic, Aug. 27 & 28, in addition to playing host to 10 Southeastern Conference matches and a non-conference showdown against Louisville.



Thompson-Boling Arena

One of the biggest reasons for that success has been the record-breaking attendance that has accompanied the move. In 2009, the Lady Vols shattered their previous single-season attendance record with 15-match total of 11,585, breaking the previous mark of 9,565 set in 2005. They also set the record for average attendance with 772 fans coming through the turnstiles for each contest in Thompson-Boling Arena in 2009.

Although it has competed in TBA for only two full seasons, UT has already set five of the top-10 single-match home attendance marks in school history. In 2009, the volleyball configuration at Thompson-Boling will provide seating for up to 7,000 Big Orange faithful.

The University of Tennessee

Founded as Blount College in 1794, the University of Tennessee became the state's first public university and its comprehensive land-grant research institution in 1879. Tennessee's only public Carnegie Doctoral/Research-Extensive University, UT ranked 51st among U.S. News and World Report's Top Public Universities in the country.

The University's colleges and schools offer more than 300 degree programs to its 27,101 students, who come from every county in Tennessee, every state in the nation and more than 100 foreign countries. Females account for 51 percent of the student body and the university has a 14.2 percent total minority enrollment.

Knoxville

When Tennessee became a state on June 1, 1796, Knoxville was distinguished as its first capital. The capital has since moved to Nashville, but the Blount Mansion and James White's Fort still stand as gentle reminders of Knoxville's historic past.

The city of Knoxville has grown into a cosmopolitan area with numerous attractions and more than 500 restaurants. It serves as the headquarters to the Tennessee Valley Authority (TVA), the nation's largest public utility, and is known as a technology corridor of the Southeast.

Knoxville is located in the geographical center of the eastern United States and is within a day's drive of half of the nation's population. Knox County is situated at the crossroads of three major interstates, I-75, I-40 and I-81.

Knoxville's city population is 177,661 with a metropolitan area population of approximately 704,431, which includes Knox, Anderson, Blount, Loudon, Sevier and Union counties.

Dr. Jan Simek became interim president of the University of Tennessee on July 1, 2009.

Dr. Jimmy Cheek became chancellor of the University of Tennessee on Feb. 1, 2009.

Dr. Dan Murphy was appointed the NCAA Faculty Athletic Representative on Nov. 7, 2009

History of Lady Vol Athletics

Though female athletes have competed at UT since 1903, they have been managed by a separate administration only since 1976. For over 30 years, athletics for women at Tennessee have enjoyed an enormous amount of growth and success. The department has been a model for other women's programs across the country because of its competitive teams, outstanding facilities, quality staff members and excellent graduation rates among student-athletes.

Intercollegiate athletics for women at the University of Tennessee officially began during the 1976-77 academic year. The UT women's department had nine intercollegiate sports at that time, including basketball, cross country, field hockey, gymnastics, swimming and diving, tennis, indoor and outdoor track and field, and volleyball. In the inaugural year, the staff numbered 17 and a budget of $120,000 serviced approximately 75 athletes.

Despite the fact that field hockey and gymnastics are no longer a part of the department, growth in staff, budget and sports continually increased through the 1970s and into the 21st century. Under current athletics director Joan Cronan, nearly 115 staff members are on hand to support 227 student-athletes. Cronan directs a department that posts an operating budget of nearly $16.5 million.

With the passage of the Restoration Act of 1988, the original mandates of Title IX have been met at Tennessee with the annexation of four sports. Golf was the first added to UT's plate in 1992. Rowing and softball joined the family during the 1995-96 season, and soccer, the 11th women's intercollegiate sport at Tennessee, began play in the fall of 1996.

The 2009-10 academic and athletic campaigns for the University of Tennessee Lady Volunteers culminated with 127 student-athletes earning academic honors (an amazing 56 percent) while the Orange and White teams placed third in the Southeastern Conference All-Sports Trophy standings. In the field of competition, the overall winning percentage for all Lady Vol teams during the 2009-10 season was a steller 70.3 percent. A total of 11 Tennessee student-athletes earned All-American citations.

UT claimed the SEC regular season and tournament championships in basketball. The softball team finished third at the Women's College World Series, missing the Championship series by one game. Phoebe Wright captured NCAA titles in the indoor and outdoor 800m and was a member of the NCAA Indoor DMR championship squad. The doubles team of Caitlin Whoriskey and Natalie Pluskota reached the semifinals of the NCAA Tournament in tennis, while the 200y medley relay squad of Jenny Connolly, Alex Barsanti, Kelsey Floyd and Michelle King finished runner-up at the NCAA Swimming and Diving Championships.

Joan Cronan

Women's Athletics Director

Triumphant collegiate programs are able to distinguish themselves from their counterparts because of superiority on the field of competition and within the classroom.

Under the vision and direction of Women's Athletics Director Joan Cronan, a heavily-requested speaker on leadership and motivation on the national and local levels, the University of Tennessee Lady Vols have garnered a reputation as one of the most visible and respected programs throughout the nation.

UT's success in both the athletic and academic realms speak volumes to her decision-making and leadership ability, as demonstrated by her appointment to the 2010 NCAA Division I Leadership Council and selection by her peers as the president of the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics (NACDA) in 2008-09. Cronan is also a former president of the National Association of Collegiate Women Athletics Administrators (NACWAA).

Both organizations have also honored Cronan as well. She was selected by NACWAA to receive their 2005 Athletic Director of the Year award. In 2004, Cronan was honored by NACDA with their Southeast Region Athletic Director of the Year award. In 2009, the United States Sports Academy elected Cronan to its Board of Trustee and she was presented with the Women of Achievement Award: "Women Who Make a Difference" by the International Women's Forum.

Now entering her 28th year at Tennessee, Cronan's continued admiration by her peers and the community is well deserved because of her efforts in facilitating the operation of a first-class program, which has finished in the top two in the Southeastern Conference Women's All-Sports Award from The New York Times Regional Newspaper Group for five of the past six years, including three first-place finishes. In three of the past five years, all 11 Lady Vol teams participated in postseason play. The UT women's athletics department achieved a seventh place finish in the 2007 Director's Cup – Tennessee's highest finish ever. She strives not only to keep UT as one of the premier women's athletics departments in the nation but also to improve women's athletics on a local, regional and national level.

Cronan joined UT from the College of Charleston in South Carolina, where she served as the athletics director for 10 years and was later inducted into that institution's hall of fame. Under Cronan, the school was selected as the No. 1 women's athletics program in the country in 1980 by the American Women's Sports Foundation.

Closer to home, Cronan is a past president of the Tennessee Sports Hall of Fame, is active on the boards of First Tennessee Bank and the YMCA, and has served as vice chair of the Leadership Knoxville board. She also works closely with the Fellowship of Christian Athletes and Athletes in Action, having served as a board member for the local FCA chapter and as a national trustee. In 2003, Cronan was inducted into the FCA Hall of Champions. Additionally, she finds time to be a deacon at Central Baptist Church-Bearden.

In 1998, Cronan's work earned her accord from the Knoxville Sports Hall of Fame, as she was named its Administrator of the Year. Other honors include chairing the 1991 Knoxville area United Way Fund Drive, serving as president of the Executive Women's Association, receiving the 1994 Toastmaster's International Communication and Leadership Award and earning the 1994 AOPi Citizen of the Year Award. In March of 1987, the Women's Basketball Coaches Association honored her hard work, dedication and success by presenting her with its leadership award. She also won the 1995 regional award for the National Association of Collegiate Women's Athletic Administrators.

Cronan has served on the NCAA's Executive Committee, Management Council, as well as the NCAA's Council, and is a member of the NCAA Championship Cabinet. She also has been a member of the Southeastern Conference Executive Committee.

As a former coach, Cronan served a two-year stint at Tennessee from 1968 to 1970. In 1969, she led the women's basketball team to an alternate berth in the first-ever National Invitational Collegiate Basketball Tournament. While at Charleston, she continued her success, not only as a basketball coach but in tennis as well. In 1981, she gave up coaching to devote her full-time attention to her duties as teacher and athletics director.

A graduate of LSU, Cronan earned her B.S. in 1966 and her M.S. in 1968, both in physical education. She was a fall 1995 inductee into LSU's Alumni Hall of Distinction. Currently an avid golfer and tennis player, Cronan was ranked as high as second in the South in doubles and is a former state and Southern doubles champion.

Cronan makes her home in Gettysvue. She and her late husband Tom, who passed away on Aug. 18, 2006, after a valiant battle with pancreatic cancer, have two daughters; Kristi (Mrs. Rhett Benner) and Stacey (Mrs. Kent Bristow), both 1994 graduates of UT; three grandsons, Chase Thomas and Reed Kent Bristow, and Quinn Leighton Benner; and two granddaughters, Reese Lauren Benner and Larkin Ann Bristow.

UT WOMEN'S ATHLETICS DEPARTMENT MISSION STATEMENT

The mission of the Women's Athletics Department at the University of Tennessee is to provide opportunities for intercollegiate athletic participation and academic excellence at the highest possible level. Our goal is to enable outstanding student-athletes to maximize their potential both athletically and academically, while maintaining an environment which fosters sportsmanship and integrity.

Tennessee Traditions

NICKNAME

The formation of the Women's Intercollegiate Athletics Department for the 1976-77 academic year prompted much discussion concerning a proper nickname for the distaff athletes. After long consideration and debate, it was decided the female student-athletes would be known as "Lady Volunteers" or "Lady Vols."

The University of Tennessee, as the state's land grant university, draws the nickname of its athletic teams (Volunteers) from the name most associated with the state. Tennessee acquired the name "The Volunteer State" in the early days of the 19th Century when General Andrew Jackson mustered large armies from his home state to fight the Indians and later the British at the Battle of New Orleans.

The name became even more prominent in the Mexican War when Governor Aaron V. Brown issued a call for 2,800 men to battle Santa Anna, and some 30,000 volunteered. The name "Volunteers" or "Lady Volunteers" is frequently shortened to "Vols" or "Lady Vols" for the men's and women's athletic teams.

MASCOT

The official mascot is Smokey, a rather pleasant blue tick coon hound that has been on the job since 1953. The dog is a native breed of Tennessee and is in a line of canines used for hunting raccoons. The present Smokey, the ninth in a line of such dogs provided by the family of the late Rev. W.C. Brooks of Knoxville, is appropriately called Smokey IX.

Smokey was chosen as a result of the 1953 Pep Club contest to select a mascot. At Lady Vol events, a human version of Smokey accompanies the cheerleaders.

CHEERLEADERS

Tennessee is one of a handful of women's athletics programs that sponsors its own varsity cheerleading squad complete with full grant-in-aid. The Lady Vol cheerleaders and mascot Smokey are chosen from a large try-out group in the spring.

SCHOOL COLORS

The colors Orange and White were selected by Charles Moore, a member of the first football team in 1891, and were later approved by a vote of the student body. The colors were those of the common American daisy which grew in profusion on "The Hill."

SPORTSMANSHIP

Good sportsmanship is a necessary ingredient for wholesome athletic competition. The University of Tennessee cherishes the reputation its fans, students and athletes have earned for sportsmanship and for extending hospitality to our visitors. The Athletics Department urges Lady Vols fans to conduct themselves in such a way that will enhance the University's reputation for providing a cordial atmosphere at sporting events.

GRADUATION RATE

The Women's Athletics Department at the University of Tennessee is fully committed to the academic progress of each student-athlete in the Lady Vol program. When coaches recruit, they look for talented athletes who will work as hard in the classroom as they do during competition.

In fact, nearly all Lady Vol student-athletes who have remained with the program through their senior years have earned, or are in the process of earning, their degrees. In addition, 620 Lady Vols have been awarded a sum of 1,211 Academic All-Southeastern Conference citations after 47 student-athletes joined the ranks in 2007-08.

ROCKY TOP

Over 40 years ago, a husband-wife song writing team, Boudleaux and Felice Bryant from Gatlinburg, Tenn., penned the song "Rocky Top." Since that time, the tune has emerged as the unofficial fight song for UT athletic teams.

Rocky Top

Wish that I was on ol' ROCKY TOP,
Down in the Tennessee hills;
Ain't no smoggy smoke on ROCKY TOP,
Ain't no telephone bills.
Once I had a girl on ROCKY TOP,
Half bear, other half cat;
Wild as mink, but sweet as soda pop,
I still dream about that.

[CHORUS]
ROCKY TOP, you'll always be
Home sweet home to me;
Good ol' ROCKY TOP--
ROCKY TOP Tennessee.

Once two strangers climbed ol' ROCKY TOP
Looking for a moonshine still;
Strangers ain't come down from ROCKY TOP,
Reckon they never will.
Corn won't grow at all on ROCKY TOP,
Dirt's too rocky by far;
That's why all the folks on ROCKY TOP
Get their corn from a jar.
